FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS/ANSWERS
& RECOMMENDED BEST PRACTICES FOR KENTUCKY ASSISTED LIVING COMMUNITIES

Preamble: The Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) in this document are provided to help you understand and interpret specific issues related to applicable state/federal requirements, primarily KRS 194A.700-729 (Assisted Living Communities) and 910 KAR 1:240 (Certification of Assisted Living Communities). This document should only be used as a supplement to the statutory and regulatory language.

The statutes and regulation referenced are only intended to reflect KALFA's general understanding and, therefore, may indicate the outer parameters of what is permissible, and should not be relied upon as legal advice. A particular act permitted under statute or regulation may or may not be the most appropriate course of action or best practice in light of all relevant circumstances and factors for a given assisted living community (ALC) in Kentucky. KALFA's recommended best practices do attempt to take some circumstances and factors into consideration, including an ALC's mission, clients' needs, staff and policies. For more information, please contact the KALFA Office, (toll-free) 877-905-2001.

	FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTION:	STATE/FEDERAL REQUIREMENTS:	KALFA'S RECOMMENDED BEST PRACTICE:
1.	Is it permissible to store a client's medication outside of the living unit or in a mobile cart?	Yes, if in accordance with proper documentation. The definition of assistance with self-administration of medication in KRS 194A.700 (3)(a)3 states that medications shall "be stored in a manner requested in writing by the client or the client's designated representative and permitted by the assisted-living community's policies".	While the law allows storage of a client's medication outside of the living unit or in a mobile cart, this practice is not recommended due to potential concerns related to privacy, security, and safety. However, if a client or the client's designated representative requests in writing that medication be stored outside of the living unit or in a mobile cart and the ALC's policies permit that type of storage, an ALC should have applicable policies and procedures to safeguard the medications and the resident's privacy, security and safety.
2.	Is written documentation required for an ALC to provide assistance with self-administration of medication?	Yes. If a resident chooses for the ALC to provide assistance with self-administration of medication, KRS 194.700 (3)(a)3 states that medication must "be stored in a manner requested in writing by the client or the client's designated representative and permitted by the assisted-living community's policies". If a resident designates a representative, 910KAR1:240 (1)(6) requires "a document signed and dated by the client, client's guardian, or	While the law permits the documentation to be in the resident's lease agreement, it is simpler if the required information is in a separate document that is not a part of the lease.

		attorney-in-fact identifying a representative authorized to prepare or direct medication pursuant to KRS 194A.700(3).”
3.	Can a client choose to use an automated medication dispenser?	Yes, so long as it is at the client’s choosing, and the ALC complies with KRS 194A.700 related to assistance with self-administration of medication, or 910KAR1:240 7(2)(f)1.
4.	Can an ALC lock a client’s medication in the client’s living unit, if requested by the client?	Yes, if in accordance with proper documentation. The definition of assistance with self-administration of medication in KRS 194A.700 (3)(a)3 states that medication must “be stored in a manner requested in writing by the client or the client’s designated representative and permitted by the assisted-living community’s policies”.	It is recommended that an ALC have policy and procedures that address storage of medication.
5.	At a client’s request, can an ALC employee apply over-the-counter topical ointments and lotions?	Yes. Applying over-the-counter topical ointments and lotions is permissible according to KRS 194A.700 (3)(b)4.	It is recommended that an ALC ensure that topical ointments, lotions, soaps and shampoos are over-the-counter prior to applying.
6.	At a client’s request, can an ALC employee instill eye, ear, or nasal drops?	No. The ALC is limited to assisting with self-administration of medication related to eye, ear or nasal drops, due to the potential for adverse health effects and decision-making that would constitute a health service, as defined in KRS	Although an ALC cannot instill (squeeze out) eye, ear, or nasal drops, employees can steady or guide the resident’s hand while the resident is self-administering medications.

7.	Can an ALC employee remove a pill or capsule from its container and hand it to the resident?	Yes, as long as the medication is preset in a medication organizer or single dose unit which includes the resident's name on the container and has been prepared or directed by the client, the client's designated representative, or a licensed healthcare professional who is not the owner, manager, or employee of the ALC pursuant to KRS 194A.700 (3).
8.	Does all medication have to be in a preset medication organizer or single dose unit container for ALC staff to assist with self-administration of medication?	No. Pursuant to 910 KAR1:240 7(2)(f)1, if medications are in bulk containers and not preset, staff assistance may include but not exceed the following actions if the client requests assistance: providing the client with a medication reminder; reading the medication's label to the client, and confirming that the medication is being taken by the client for whom it is prescribed; and opening the medication container or dosage package, but not handling or removing the medication. An ALC may choose to have policies that are more restrictive than the definition of self-administration of medications as per KRS 194A.700(3).

	FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTION:	STATE/FEDERAL REQUIREMENTS:	KALFA'S RECOMMENDED BEST PRACTICE:
9.	Can an ALC employee steady or guide a client's hand when the client is self-administering medication?	Yes, pursuant to KRS194A.700 (3)(b)3.	It is recommended that an ALC train its staff regarding the difference between steadying and guiding a resident's hand and administration of medication, which is prohibited.
10.	At a client's request, can an ALC employee take the client's medication to another location in the ALC?	Yes. This is a clerical service under the definition of instrumental activities of daily living (KRS 194A.700).	It is recommended that this not be a common practice, due to potential concerns related to privacy, security, and safety.
11.	Can a client arrange for any outside entity of choice to administer medication?	Yes. KRS 194A.705 is not limiting in stating that clients of an ALC may arrange for additional services under direct contract or arrangement with an outside agent, professional, provider or other individual so designated by the client, if permitted by the policies of the ALC. However, per the definition of health services in KRS 216B.015, any person providing clinically-related services to two or more people is required to be licensed as a private duty nurse, home health agency or another applicable health care provider.	It is recommended that an ALC's policy regarding a client's right to arrange for additional services under direct contract or arrangement should stipulate the client is responsible for ensuring that any outside agent, professional, provider or other individual complies with this policy.
12.	Can ALC employees assist with self-administration of prescription dermal (skin) patches?	Yes. Pursuant to 194A.700(3), an ALC employee is able to open the single dose package and steady or guide the

13.	Can an ALC employee assist with self-administration of over-the-counter oral medications in a bulk container, such as vitamins, pain relievers, cold/allergy capsules, to a client?	Yes. Pursuant to 910KAR1:240(7)(2)(f)1, if medications are in bulk containers and not preset, staff assistance may include but not exceed the following actions if the client requests assistance: providing the client with a medication reminder; reading the medication's label to the client, and confirming that the medication is being taken by the client for whom it is prescribed; and opening the medication container or dosage package, but not handling or removing the medication.
14.	Can an ALC employee assist with self-administration of PRN oral medications?	Yes, at the resident's request, if the medication is preset in a medication organizer or single dose unit which includes the resident's name on the container and has been prepared or directed by the client, the client's designated representative, or a licensed healthcare professional who is not the owner, manager, or employee of the ALC pursuant to KRS 194A.700 (3), staff may remind the client when to take the medication and observe to ensure that the client takes it as directed,

17.	At a client's request, is an ALC allowed to telephone, fax or deliver a written prescription to a pharmacy?	Yes. This is a clerical service under the definition of instrumental activities of daily living (KRS 194A.700).
18.	At the client's request, can the ALC pick up medications at the pharmacy?	Yes. This is a clerical service under the definition of instrumental activities of daily living (KRS 194A.700).
19.	May an ALC facilitate the filling of a preset medication container by a third party?	Yes. Pursuant to KRS 194A.700 (3)(d), at the request of the client or the client's designated representative, an ALC may facilitate the filling of a preset medication container by a designated representative or licensed health care professional who is not the owner, manager, or employee of the assisted living community. This includes taking bulk medications to client's pharmacy to have them preset and communicating directly with the pharmacy or other healthcare provider.	Other than the case of an emergency, it is recommended that the ALC obtain written documentation of the requests from the client or designated representative.

If the medication is from a preset container, the employee may place the retrieved medication in the client's hand.	responsibility of the client.
21.	Does the locking of doors for delayed egress in an area such as a unit designed for clients with dementia constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015?	No. The locking of doors for delayed egress does not constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015. However, pursuant to KRS 194A.703, a client shall be provided access to central dining, a laundry facility, and a central living room.
22.	Under the NFPA Life Safety Code (LSC), can an ALC have delayed egress locks on its exit doors?	Yes. The 2006 LSC provides that approved, listed, delayed-egress locks shall be permitted to be installed on doors serving low and ordinary hazard contents in buildings protected throughout by an approved, supervised automatic fire detection system in accordance with Section 9.6 or an approved, supervised automatic sprinkler system in accordance with Section 9.7, and where permitted in Chapter 12 through Chapter 42, provided that specific criteria are met, including required signage.

23.	What are the fire drill requirements for assisted living communities?	According to the State Fire Marshal, each ALC must have evacuation capability documentation that ensures at least six fire drills occur per year, based upon a bimonthly schedule, and with at least two held during inconvenient times, primarily sleeping hours. The alarm or smoke detectors must be used. While some exceptions do apply, actual evacuation is required, including the opportunity to use all required exits and means of escape.	It is recommended that an ALC have policies in place to address clients' safety and well-being after evacuating the building to deal with issues such as extreme weather conditions.
24.	Do fire drills have to be unannounced?	No.
25.	Is it required that an ALC complete an initial and updated functional needs assessment?	Yes. 910 KAR 1:240 requires that a functional needs assessment reflects a client's ability, pursuant to KRS 194A.711, to perform activities of daily living and instrumental activities of daily living. An ALC shall update the functional needs assessment at least annually. The ALC	It is recommended that an ALC seek input from the client, key managers and direct caregivers regarding that client's functional needs assessment.

		shall provide copies of the initial, conducted upon move-in, and subsequent functional needs assessments to the client.
26.	Does the functional needs assessment have to be updated if the client has directly arranged for ADL or IADL services to be provided under direct contract or arrangement?	Yes. Regardless of who provides ADL or IADL services, 910 KAR 1:240 requires that a functional needs assessment reflects a client's ability to perform activities of daily living and instrumental activities of daily living.	An ALC must ensure that the client is not a danger, regardless of who provides the ADL or IADL services.
27.	Does use of the term "total assistance" in a functional needs assessment mean that a client is a danger?	Not necessarily, depending on the client's situation. There are numerous examples of total assistance with IADLS, such as laundry or transportation, that don't mean the client is a danger. However, unrelated to danger, the client must be able to participate at least to some degree in every ADL and IADL. Pursuant to KRS 194A. 700(2), assistance with activities of daily living and instrumental activities of daily living means any assistance provided by the assisted-living community staff with the client having at least minimal ability to verbally direct or physically participate in the activity with which assistance is being provided.	It is recommended that an ALC avoid using the term "total assistance".
28.	Does the functional needs assessment	No.	While the law permits the documentation have to be part of the lease?		to be in the resident's lease agreement, it is simpler if the required information is in a separate document that is not a part of the lease.

29.	Can an ALC request history and physical forms and other health-related documents from a client?	Yes. The law does not prohibit the ALC from requesting, and the client from providing, optional information helpful to identify services that meet the client's needs, so long as decisions are not being made, or advice being given, that constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.
30.	Is an ALC required to request that a client receive an assessment from an outside entity or health care provider?	No.	Under circumstances where it might be insightful, the ALC may find it prudent to request that a client receive an assessment from a health care provider to ensure that the client is not a danger remaining in the ALC.
31.	Is specific information required to be collected in determining a client's personal preferences and social factors?	No, but KRS 194A.713 mandates that the lease agreement include information regarding personal preferences and social factors.	It is recommended that the ALC be able to demonstrate that its daily social activities address the general preferences of its clients, as required by KRS 194A.705. Conducting a written client survey may be a helpful tool to determine the clients' general preferences, and also to show that activities tailored to respond to those likes do address the clients' general preferences.

32.	Does the law limit assistance with transferring in an ALC?	No. Transferring is an activity of daily living, as defined in KRS 194A.700. Pursuant to life safety codes, all clients must be able to safely evacuate during a fire or like emergency at any time. Any clients requiring assistance, such as with transferring or cueing, must be identified in the evacuation capability documentation and applicable staff training.
33.	Does the law limit assistance with toileting in an ALC?	No. Toileting is an activity of daily living, as defined in KRS 194A.700.	It is recommended that ALC employees be trained to understand that providing invasive bowel/bladder care or advice constitutes a health service (examples: enema, catheter, new ostomy), as defined in KRS 216B.015.
34.	Does the law limit assistance with eating in an ALC?	No. Eating is an activity of daily living, as defined in KRS 194A.700.	It is recommended that ALC employees should be generally aware that providing assistance with eating differs from feeding a client, and as a result, some nutritional interventions do constitute a health service (i.e., feeding tube), as defined in KRS 216B.015.
35.	Can an ALC accommodate a client's request for specific foods and/or fluids?	Yes. Accommodating a client's request, if agreed to by the ALC, is not prohibited under KRS 194A.700-729. The

36.	Upon request by a client, can an employee of an ALC steady or guide the client's hand when the client is initiating and self-administering a blood sugar test?	Yes. Upon request by a client, an employee can steady or guide the client's hand when the client is initiating and self-administering the test. However, employees cannot interpret or advise the client on the clinical results of the test, nor calibrate the equipment. In addition, although the employee is only steadying or guiding the client's hand, it is feasible that OSHA or other federal standards could be applicable, due to the potential exposure and associated risks of blood spills, contamination, etc.	It is recommended that an ALC which allows employees to steady or guide a client's hand when the client is initiating and self-administering a blood sugar test should maintain policies & procedures and provide training on this service.
37.	Can an ALC employee remove, empty, clean and replace the bag of a colostomy or catheter?	Yes. However, the employee must not provide clinical assessment or consultation that would constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015.	It is recommended that an ALC has applicable policies & procedures and training, and employees should be generally aware of what would otherwise constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015, when performing this function.

	FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTION:	STATE/FEDERAL REQUIREMENTS:	KALFA'S RECOMMENDED BEST PRACTICE:
38.	Does turning a client in bed constitute a health service?	No. However, employees must not provide clinical assessment or consultation that would constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015.	It is recommended that an ALC regard turning a client in bed as comparable to an ADL in which a client must be able to participate at least to some degree. Pursuant to KRS 194A. 700(2), assistance with activities of daily living and instrumental activities of daily living means any assistance provided by the assisted-living community staff with the client having at least minimal ability to verbally direct or physically participate in the activity with which assistance is being provided.
39.	Can an ALC employee remove and reinsert a client's hearing aid?	Yes. Removing and reinserting a client's hearing aid is not an invasive function that constitutes a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015.
40.	Can an ALC employee assist a client in recording and transmitting pacemaker readings?	Yes. This is a clerical service under the definition of instrumental activities of daily living (KRS 194A.700). The employee must not provide clinical assessment or consultation that would constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015.
41.	Upon request, can an ALC employee replace oxygen equipment for a client?	Yes. However, the ALC employee cannot turn on/off the flow of oxygen, nor recalibrate or adjust any	It is recommended that ALC employees should be generally aware of what would otherwise constitute a health service, as

42.	Is physical safety equipment, such as a safety belt on a wheelchair, prohibited in an ALC?	No, physical safety equipment is not prohibited, so long it is the client's decision, the client is not a danger and he/she can safely evacuate in the case of an emergency, including the ability to self-release the physical safety equipment whenever necessary or desired.	It is recommended that, if a client requires physical safety equipment, an ALC should carefully re-evaluate the client's overall needs to ensure that he/she is not a danger.
43.	What type of first aid can an ALC employee provide for a client?	First aid does not constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015. With the client's consent and to the extent that the client is unable, the employee may render first aid (i.e., initially clean wound area, apply topical ointment and adhesive bandage, apply ice/heat, etc.). First aid does not include ongoing treatment.
44.	If desired by a client, can an ALC provide wellness checks for clients, such as taking vitals and weights?	Yes. However, interpretations and advice that constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015, shall not be made or communicated by the ALC employees.
45.	If desired by a client, can an ALC maintain documentation on wellness checks provided to a client, such as vital signs and weights?	Yes. This is a clerical service under the definition of instrumental activities of daily living (KRS 194A.700). Interpretations and advice shall not be	It is recommended that wellness check documentation be provided to the client, rather than being maintained by the ALC.

46.	As referred to in KRS 194A.711, what is a "temporary condition"?	Pursuant to 910 KAR 1:240 1(15), "temporary condition" means a condition that affects a client-as follows: (a) The client loses mobility either before or after entering a lease agreement with the assisted-living community but is expected to regain mobility within six (6) months of loss of ambulation or mobile non-ambulation; is documented by a licensed healthcare professional who is not the owner, manager, or employee of the assisted-living community; and the assisted-living community has a written plan in place to ensure that the client is not a danger; or (b) The client loses mobility after entering a lease agreement; the client is not expected to regain mobility; hospice or similar end-of-life services are provided in accordance with KRS 194A.705(2) documented by hospice or a licensed health care professional; and the assisted-living community has a written plan in place to ensure that the client is not a danger.

47.	What documentation is required for a client who has a temporary condition, including a client who is receiving hospice or similar end-of-life services?	910 KAR 1:240 requires documentation in a client's file (i) from hospice or a licensed health care professional as defined by KRS 216.300(1), as applicable, and who is not the owner, manager, or employee of the assisted-living community, requested of the client by the ALC that states the client has a temporary condition pursuant to KRS 194A.711(1); and (ii) from the ALC to ensure that the client is not a danger, including if hospice or similar end-of-life services are provided.	It is recommended the ALC should request from a client that documentation from a licensed health care professional or hospice, as applicable, verify that the services being provided ensure the client is not a danger. Additionally, the ALC should avoid documenting clinical statements that would constitute a health service, as defined in KRS 216B.015.
48.	If a client is nonambulatory or mobile nonambulatory due to a temporary condition, can ALC employees provide assistance with ambulation during this temporary period?	Yes. Kentucky statutes don't prohibit assistance with ambulation when a client is nonambulatory or mobile nonambulatory due to a temporary condition, so long as the client is not a danger. Pursuant to KRS 194A.717, the ALC must ensure staffing is sufficient in number and qualification to meet the 24 hour scheduled needs of each client pursuant to the lease agreement and functional needs assessment, including a client who needs assistance with ambulation due to a temporary condition.

		Pursuant to life safety codes, all clients must be able to safely evacuate during a fire or like emergency at any time. Any clients requiring assistance or cueing must be identified in the evacuation capability documentation and applicable staff training.
49.	Is an ALC required to implement its most recent approved plan of correction?	Yes. 910 KAR 1:240 states that certification may be revoked if an ALC fails to implement its most recent approved plan of correction under current ownership and within the plan of correction's specified timeframe.	It is recommended that an ALC's plan of correction should carefully outline attainable action to correct an area of noncompliance within a realistic time frame, without making unrealistic or unnecessary assurances.
50.	Is DAIL required to immediately notify an ALC of a finding of danger during a complaint or certification review?	Yes. 910 KAR 1:240 requires that DAIL immediately notify the ALC during the on-site meeting and provide the DAIL-ALC-4, Statement of Danger.	It is recommended that the ALC request as much information as possible during the on-site meeting and attempt to satisfactorily resolve the alleged danger prior to DAIL's departure.
51.	If DAIL finds a danger, when does an ALC have to begin to implement a plan to correct that danger?	910 KAR 1:240 requires that, within 48 hours, unless issued on a Friday and then by 4:30 p.m. eastern standard time of the next business day, of receiving the DAIL-ALC-4 Statement of Danger, the ALC shall begin to implement a plan to correct the danger and shall submit a written response to DAIL. The response must confirm how the danger has been eliminated, why the danger is disputed or	It is recommended that, before beginning to implement a plan and responding in writing to DAIL, the ALC clearly understand what finding of danger DAIL has issued.
